Old Eastwood Town Hall, Marsfield Upgrade

Dear Resident

We would like to inform you of the upcoming remodeling of the Old Eastwood Town Hall.

In 1911, the Eastwood Town Hall was built at 74 Agincourt Road. It is a simple, single storey building, originally designed by Varney Parkes, the son of Sir William Parkes a former Premier of NSW. The Hall has interwar classical stylistic features and is set back from the street with a front entry area of brick effect paving and landscaping.

The Town Hall was renovated in 1938, and since that time has had further extensions along its western perimeter and at its rear.

The proposed upgrade includes:

- Demolition of existing kitchen and kitchenette,
- Connection of gas supply,
- Construction of commercial kitchen, and
- Construction of storeroom.

Please see over page for more details.

Timing of works
